"Blessed be the LORD God of Israel; For He hath visited and redeemed His people, And hath raised up an horn of salvation for us in the house of his servant David; as he spake by the mouth of his holy prophets, which have been since the world began; That we should be saved from our enemies and from the hand of all that hate us; to perform the mercy promised to our fathers and to remember his holy covenant; The oath which he sware to our father Abraham, That he would grant unto us, that we being delivered out of the hand of our enemies might serve him without fear, in holiness and righteousness before him, all the days of our lives." ### OVERCOMERS OF WHAT-2

Pastor Mark Downey

Scripture Reading: Revelation 2:25-29

The end of the Church Age commences with the collapse of Mystery Babylon. It is this interim of time from the fall of our great enemies to the Second Coming of Jesus that we "occupy till He comes" Luke 19:13. It's true that for the last 2000 years, the generation that followed the Apostles have had the wrong kind of occupation. The overcomers will rediscover the original intent of the 1st century command, which was not the establishment of a state church or a church state; like Mormonism in Utah, or the Vatican in Rome, but rather an expansion of spiritual values in Israelite (White) societies. Nor did the parable imply that the "nobleman" (Jesus) expected financial gain through usury from the nominal "ten pounds" that He gave His servants. In verse 14 it mentions citizens who hated Him and said, "We will not have this man to reign over us." These, of course, are the Jews who historically have made their wealth and power from the avarice of being the world's foremost temple money-changers and control freaks of a born again Babylon. Why would Jesus tell His servants to do the same thing His enemies were doing? Well, He wouldn't. The overcomer will know that the word "occupy" did not mean the occupation of nations defeated by unjust and ungodly wars, such as the occupation of Germany by America since the aftermath of WWII. WWII was simply one of many Jewish wars in which "The kingdom of heaven has suffered violence, and the violent take it by force" Mt.11:12. The command Jesus gave His servants was spiritual and it's still in effect today. His servants could only be those who He identified as such: "But you, Israel, are My servant" Isaiah 41:8. The ten servants were the ten tribes of the northern house who became lost sheep. That's who Jesus said He came for (Mt. 15:24).

There are better translations of Luke 19:13 than the KJV's use of the word "occupy." The Greek word is pragmateúomai (prag-mat-yoo'-om-ahee, #G4231) and means "to busy oneself with, i.e. to trade." Unfortunately, some lexicons like Thayers distorts the definition by saying "to be occupied in anything; to carry on a business; to carry on the business of a banker or a trader." I can tell you most assuredly that Jesus never told His Disciples to engage in the business of banking nor did they. And we should not occupy our time with anything that dishonors the Word of God. (Polyglot: "to be engaged in a matter; to employ one's self")

The word 'occupy' is only found once in the NT at Luke 19:13. Now the sheep can get easily lost if they take this passage literally and not spiritually. A few versions will give us a compass reading to triangulate the occupation of an overcomer. From the NASB it reads "Do business with this until I come back." From the Aramaic Bible "Invest in trading until I come." And from the CNT "Engage yourselves in business while I go." In order to multiply what the Lord gave His Disciples, we must determine what it is that He gave them exactly. Scholars quibble over the monetary amount, but that's not the point if reckoning a literal token $20 in today's terms. The point was that He gave them a modest amount, nothing that would overwhelm them. It was His words, the Gospel of Jesus Christ, not a cash payout. It was the priceless Good News of their identity (because the lost sheep were lost) and what they were to do prior to His coming back. It could be taken in the sense of free enterprise, not to be confused with capitalism, to live your life and prosper with an honest endeavor of work, with the understanding that all provisions come from God. Or it could be taken in the sense of Jesus's work, in which He said "I must be about My Father's business" Luke 2:49. Both interpretations are in harmony and glorify God. We must be about our Father's business and earn an honest living also. The Jew has no such prerequisite from the traditions of the elders.

The Disciples thought the Kingdom was going to manifest itself immediately, but Jesus had to show them that it was going to be longer than they thought. Every Christian should have the thought that they're in it for the long haul and not to rest on their laurels. True Christians will serve dutifully in the midst of a hostile Babylon and the trappings of the traditions of man. Their reward in the Kingdom would depend on their faithfulness during their period of perseverance. The parable in Luke is most likely taken from a real event in the 1st century, whereas upon the death of Herod the Great, his son Archelaus (ar-ke-la'-us; Matt. 2:22), a monster mongrel, said to have killed 3000 people, went to Rome to have his rule over Judea confirmed by Augustus Caesar. There was also a delegation of Jews and his two brothers who issued a complaint against him for his tyranny, saying, in essence, 'we do not want him to rule over us.' Thus, a current event at that time was an example the Lord used to bring His spiritual lesson to life. Jesus was not comparing Himself to a Herod, but rather a principle of rejection and the duration of time until He would be accepted to receive His Kingdom. For the past 2000 years His followers have taken what they received from the Word and made increase of more disciples who would hear and obey. They were to act as if the Kingdom were already in place, which means we are all actors or agents of Jesus's government. It is being about our Messiah's business in His absence, whether it is political or economic, in commerce or worship, in everything that constitutes a healthy and prosperous Christian-Israel civilization. Are we there yet? Far from it... maybe.

Consider the only servants in this parable who are judged and punished. I'll give you a clue: it's not the overcomers or those who can get beyond the status quo; it's those who merely kept intact what they received, and have made no attempt to increase it. Spiritually, the unproductive servant did not use the gifts of the Spirit for the good of his brethren. He might as well have locked it up in a vault and never opened it [as some people do with their Bibles] for the edification of others during his lifetime. If you have good news, you usually want to share it with people. Even though the world today is so integrated with the universal brotherhood of mongrels, the Gospel of Christ is not regarded for its racial exclusivity. Instead, "another gospel" has replaced the original with the sophistry that God is so omnipotent that He doesn't need us to do anything. So churchianity has replaced the ecclesia with the same attitude as the slothful servant, to merely give lip service and perform meaningless rites and rituals, rather than going against the grain of society and boldly speaking the Truth as did the Disciples... to the death.

The church establishment has made tons of money and built mega churches with basketball auditoriums, cafeterias and giant parking lots, but they did nothing to build Christian character and a racial consciousness to contend with the onslaught of antichrists [see list on page 9]. The trade that Christian Identity is engaged in is the exchange of teachings to grow the awareness of who true Israel is and the plethora of evidence to disprove the Big Lie of Jews; i.e. they never have been Semitic. We have exercised the treasure Christ gave us and trade freely the knowledge of who we are. There have been some ministries in the name of its ministers and not in the name of Jesus the Christ, whose unused gifts diminished. Whereas other ministries have used well what they have and find themselves continually growing. It's a microcosm of the parable, which shows those who are about their Father's business and those who are in business for themselves. Our occupation is gainful spiritual increase; the idea has always been for the exponential grace bestowed upon the White race. We can only plant the seed and set the example, praying for a time of Jacob's trouble when there is such massive disgust and revulsion for the corruptions of Babylon. And it looks like our prayers are being answered, which makes the time of harvest ripe for picking a fight.

I've mentioned before that the New Covenant is dormant in most of our people, because of the way they've been conditioned by religion and church law. It's spiritual novocaine that numbs our appreciation of an unconditional covenant God made with His people. It's something He will do; not us. To the overcomer, an alarm bell awakens us to the Divine Law. The things gifted to us are written in our heart and mind so that we may be in agreement with God's will. But, once we are aware of the gift, we either use it or lose it. "Now we do not receive the spirit of the world, but the Spirit which is from God, that we might know the things that were freely given to us by God. Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teaches, but which the Holy Spirit teaches; comparing spiritual things with spiritual" I Cor. 2:12-13.

The Greek word for 'comparing' is sugkrino (#4793 soong-kree-no) and means "to judge of one thing in connection to another, i.e. combine (spiritual ideas with appropriate expressions) or collate (one person with another by way of contrast or resemblance)." If you are a racially pure White man, you are different than all other bipeds on the planet, because you are begotten from above (from God). We are receptive to the Word/Law of God like no other people on earth. I Peter 4:10-11 therefore explains to us, "As good stewards of the manifold grace of God, each of you should use whatever gift he has received to serve one another. If anyone speaks, he should speak as one conveying the words of God. If anyone serves, he should serve with the strength God supplies, so that in all things God may be glorified through Jesus Christ, to whom be the glory and the power forever and ever. Amen." We can only judge or evaluate things according to the Word. When brethren collaborate with each other, their gifts are compounded and a spiritual connection is made. The overcomers are the epitome of unity, in that "All speak the same thing... without divisions... perfectly joined together, in the same mind and in the same judgment" I Cor. 1:10.

Our approach and entrance to the Kingdom is not spontaneous. It is a work in progress and it's taking a long time before the King opens the gate to His Kingdom. The only people who will be allowed into "that great city" (Rev. 21:10) are those for whom it is reserved, the overcomers. Those who did not occupy till the King arrives will be up the creek without the proverbial paddle. If one was a Christian in name only and never did anything to promote the King of kings, then even what they were given to make increase will be taken from them and given to the other servants who did do something with their gifts. If they planted nothing, they shall reap nothing. Starting in Luke 19:22 (through v. 26) we read, "The king said to him, I will judge you by your own words, you wicked slave!... And he said unto them that stood by, Take from him the pound, and give it to him that hath ten pounds. They answered him, Sir, he already has ten coins! Yes, the king replied, And to those who use well what they are given, even more will be given. But from those who do nothing, even what little they have will be taken away." That should give any Christian the incentive to figure out what it takes, more than anything else, to be an overcomer in order to enter the New Jerusalem.

I don't see why any Christian would not want to be an overcomer and have the aspiration to deal with their sin nature. It has not been easy living under governments with good intentions on the surface, but superficial and misleading internally, coercing society through fear to be good to their fellow citizens, some of whom will never be citizens in the Kingdom. And it's exacerbated by the churches "For fear of the Jews" (John 7:13), that judeo-Christians dare not speak openly about Christ not really being a Jew as we understand the modern application. Our people are terrorized with being demonized and labeled for pointing out the madness of calling good evil and evil good. "For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil" Romans 13:3. Jesus faced the same impediments with the self-righteous in power. But they were cruel and sadistic before, during and after the Crucifixion of the Son of God. However, our Savior was resurrected from the grave as proof that He had overcome the world and a guarantee that we can likewise die with honor and hope. The power of agape was greater than the arm of the flesh. If rulers are a terror to those who work for good, their power is no longer God's will and are illegitimate. The religious leaders were complicit with the governmental authorities in Jesus' day and the church today has surrendered to a godless state. Jesus was a threat to lawlessness and after He died and was resurrected, His followers likewise were persecuted being perceived as a threat. Peter made it simple and said, "We should obey God, rather than man" Acts 5:29. Oh, the simplicity is gruelling.

As we get closer to the fall of Babylon, which will include the fallen church, because the Mystery is a combination of religion and economics and both will be shaken so violently that neither will ever stand again. When God spoke from Mount Sinai, His voice shook the earth, but now He makes another promise: "Once again I will shake not only the earth but the heavens also" Heb. 12:26. The ultimate reference is what is seen dimly afar off in so many of the prophetic visions i.e. the final dissolution of the whole present order of things, to be succeeded by the Kingdom of eternal righteousness. It's not talking about God's abode in the heavens, but rather man's elevated authority in law and government. The actors on the world stage couldn't be much more perfectly defined in their particular role of conspiracy and corruption. We seem to be hearing more and more about Jezebel these days for some reason. God did a fine job in His general casting of the cast of players and what they represent. You can get a review of the script in the Bible if you like.

It's absurd to think that after 6000 years we've been struggling to bring about the Kingdom of God to the Adamic-Israelite people on the land He bestowed upon us, a Beulah land that is 'married to God,' only to have our people thinking that citizens of the Kingdom will be residing in the Heaven of God's abode somewhere beyond the stars. This double mind does not bode well for the stability of the aftermath of Mystery Babylon collapsing. It will be here on earth, to wit "And have made us unto our God kings and priests [or a kingdom of priests], and we shall reign on the earth." "The heaven, even the heavens, are the Lord's; but the earth hath he given to the children of men" Ps. 115:16.

The overcomers will be there during this period of time, where people are dazed and confused. Their ministry will be the end-time Elijah (Malachi 4:5-6), which Christian Identity is already engaged in. God has separated from the Church, creating a new spiritual body without the trappings of denominationalism. God will give His overcomers the wherewithal to work with the final exodus from bondage to liberty in Jesus Christ, proclaiming Rev. 18:4 "Come out of her My people." We don't want any wives of Lot looking back and turning into a pillar salt. This is what I was alluding to when I said, "I think the days of conventional ministry are waning and that the paradigm will be that of overcomers, overcoming the world outside the four walls of a church building." Don't look back at the steeples and stained glass [or the burning roof].

The Law of separation is thus explained in Deut. 22:9, "Thou shalt not sow thy vineyard with divers seeds: lest the fruit of thy seed which thou hast sown, and the fruit of thy vineyard, be defiled." The racial message of the Gospels cannot be held liable for the centuries of deceitful universalism. The living manifestation of the New Covenant cannot be mixed with Jewish fables and catholic superstitions, lest it be defiled. The overcomer will be there for White Christians coming out of darkness and into His marvelous Light. As I referred to this "last exodus" and a whole lot of shaking going on, just as Elijah dealt with the priests of Baal, for "This expression, 'Yet once more,' denotes the removing of those things which can be shaken, as of created things, so that those things which cannot be shaken may remain" Heb. 12:27. This phrase "as of created things" is not referring to what God created, but rather signifies those things created in nature that are transient and temporary, in contrast to things divinely fixed and stable. For example, God did not create the hybrid mongrel, the bastardized church or the brotherhood of mutants. God is a racist. I am a racist. It's time to get racist and not look back. Let true Israel be warned of forgetting or denying or worse... hating the Covenants, all made with the same race of people and no one else.

The blessings our ancestors were given had the intent of multiplication. Enter stage left, the curse of devils, who have always been a plurality of false accusers. They have slandered the Word of God with the doctrine of inclusion, to include all human beings into God's plan for the ages and the suicidal belief that all paths lead to God. The Abrahamic Covenant declared in Gen. 12:3 states, "And I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curses thee; and in thee shall all the families of the earth be blessed." The defilement of this verse is that the "thee" pertains to jews. If this were true, there should be some type of fulfillment, but there is none. It does, however, pertain to the descendants of Jacob-Israel and all the families of the White race. This can be shown according to the historical record as to who has advanced the Kingdom of God and the sovereignty of Jesus Christ more than any other people on earth. Christianity has expanded exponentially, not because of multicultural diversity or race mixing, but by the core values of the White nuclear family. The Law is written in their hearts. The talmud is a circumvention of the Law and is inculcated naturally through congenital slander. The Jew can never be an overcomer because there is nothing written in their darkened hearts but murder and lies.

I ran across a very peculiar news item recently and could only partially verify the particulars. Starting today, September 4, and running through to the 23rd, there will be a major ecumenical meeting; one of the largest and longest between Christians (and I use that word very loosely), Jews and Muslims in the old forsaken city of Jerusalem, which all three religions hold near and dear. There will be no Identity Christians in attendance. The headline that caught my attention was “Pope Francis to Proclaim Lucifer as God of One World Religion” at a website called end-time.news, which is a tabloid style site engaged in judeo sensationalism. I could confirm that there is indeed an annual happening called the Mekudeshet Festival. It is not only religious, but also offers musicians, actors, artists, celebrities and media. The Pope is the central figure, but true to form will not be representing Jesus Christ at the conference. The organizers have announced that there will be an 11 day consecration, in which services will bring together the three religions under one roof and “co-exist temporarily under the wings of the Almighty,” a belief that all basically have the same God.

Quoting end-time.news, simply for its factual reporting of current events, we can draw some logical conclusions.

“The Vatican is one of the chief proponents of the ecumenical movement around the world and in Israel. For the past three years, Pope Francis has worked tirelessly toward a new world religion, in which all denominations are brought together as one. If you look at Francis’ outreach over the past three years and specifically in 2016, you’ll find somebody who has openly condemned evangelical Christianity and a belief that you must have a personal relationship with Jesus. In fact, Francis equated the spread of the gospel under evangelical Christianity to Jihadism and called a personal relationship with Jesus dangerous. The extent of Francis’ outreach to other denominations and religions in 2016 has been mind boggling. In February, Francis held an emergency meeting with Patriarch Kirill of Russia for the first time since the 1054 schism. Francis has also reached out to Patriarch Batholomew of Turkey, in which both leaders voiced support for migrants and called for more migrants to enter Europe. In May, Francis met with Al-Azhar of Egypt, who is the head of Sunni Islam. In January 2016, Francis was the third pontiff to visit Rome’s major synagogue. In June, he outreached to the Armenians. In July, Francis was the driving force behind a ceremony in the U.S. called Together, organized to bring all Christians in front of the 6660 inch obelisk, the phallus of Osiris, for worship. One of the major symbols we saw for the Together 2016 event was the ouroboros, or the serpent eating its own tail. The earliest legend of the ouroboros is associated with Osiris and his son, Ra. The ouroboros is a highly occult symbol signifying the end of an aeon, or the end of time. In occultism, the end of one aeon usually results in a reset brought about by some cataclysmic event.”

If you ask me about a snake eating itself in the symbolism of a circle, and I’m no fancy professor, just a Kentucky redneck preacher, I’d say it’s the same darn serpent in the Bible that is cannibalizing the world. “To the degree that she glorified herself and lived luxuriously” (Rev. 18:7) is identical to the gospel of getting rich at the expense of other people. This passage is describing the international Jew who consumes the nations for its own benefit, but in the end can only result in self-destruction. It couldn’t be more blatant than the ‘get rich’ presidential candidates selling you their used car clunkers. Mystery Babylon is a serpentine consortium of Jews and Catholics having religious and economic control over much of the world. The ecumenical movement is one such attempt to gather all religions under the wings of a Jesuit pope. It’s an intricate and fascinating history of changing hierarchies, generational dynasties and intrigue often obfuscated by their own disinformation. The consortium of Satanists, Freemasons, Roman Catholics, Edomite Jews, Bilderbergers, Trilateralists, Baal priests, sodomite priests and atheist priests etc is an enemy that has thousands of ways to beguile unstable souls. What makes a man unstable? It’s a double mind i.e. hypocrisy. It’s a mental condition unable to overcome the obstacles of life. To the Christian armed for defense in battle, the apostle Paul recommends only one weapon of attack; but it’s enough: the sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God. It subdues and mortifies evil desires and blasphemous thoughts as they rise from within; and answers unbelief and error as they assault us from without. A single text, well understood, and rightly applied, at once destroys temptations and doubts, and subdues the most formidable of human serpents.

Pope Francis has talked about transparent reforms and has stated publicly that he would even baptize extraterrestrials. How brutally honest of him! If the Pope were to announce that Lucifer was the god of a New World Order, I think that would be a fatal miscalculation, but go ahead, make my day.

When the light shines in darkness, what will happen to the Vatican? It will be the beginning of the end i.e. the Ouroboros... a dead snake head. In our Scripture reading today, in verse 28 it says, “And I will give him the morning star.” In Isaiah 14 we find an example of the deification of man, the king of Babylon, elevating himself with the titles Eosphoros in Greek and Lucifer in the Latin, meaning light-bearer (a pagan reference to the planet Venus i.e. the Morning Star). No man can produce light as from the sun or a star. Hence, verse 28 is not promising the Christian a heathen deity; far from it! We are being given the true light-bearer, “the Sun of righteousness” (Malachi 4:2), Jesus Christ. “There was the true Light which, coming into the world, enlightens every man” John 1:9. Every White man has this light to overcome the dark.

In a press release for the 2016 Mekudeshet Festival, it stated that their initiative was created to “Share a belief in one God and a boundless love for Jerusalem to dialogue, study, sing and pray together in one temporary house of worship,” and “We will see if it is possible, despite all the corporeal difficulties and earthly obstacles, to create a new reality.” That is not the kind of obstacle an overcomer should be pursuing. But, the time comes when “There will arise false messiahs and false prophets, and will show signs and wonders, so as to deceive, if possible, even the elect” Mt. 24:24. The elect are the chosen ones of God, the White race descended from Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. I’ve heard some say that it’s not possible. I disagree, being that Israel went whoring after strange gods in ancient times and is even worse today. That can only happen under the pretext of “a new reality.” The overcomer doesn’t need any stinkin’ new reality. All nations were deceived (according to Rev. 18:23) by what? By sorceries or the opiates of religion, whatever alters your mind to the reality around you. The overcomer is not doped up with the warm and fuzzy platitudes of churchianity and will be there when people sober up to the reality that they've been lied to.

The overcomer will be the exception to the rule of anti-Christians. "For many are called, but few are chosen" Mt. 22:14. It's a dichotomy that the elect, God's Israel people, are the chosen ones and yet may fail to choose the rule of Christ. "How long will you hesitate between two opinions? If the Lord is God, follow Him; but if Baal, follow him" I Kings 18:21. But don't procrastinate for too long, because things are moving fast. For those who wish to read the job benefits of an overcomer, let me make it easy for you with a rundown of the perks.

"He who overcomes, and he who keeps My works to the end, to him I will give authority over the nations" Rev. 2:26. Finally, rulers will be a terror unto the evil and not the good.

"He who overcomes will thus be clothed in white garments; and I will not erase his name from the book of life, and I will confess his name before My Father and before His angels" Rev. 3:5. Our presence in a crooked and perverse generation will stand out as if wearing righteousness itself, the purified bride prepared and ready to meet Jesus.

"He who overcomes, I will grant to him to sit down with Me on My throne, as I also overcame and sat down with My Father on His throne" Rev. 3:21. Those made like Christ in His trials, shall be made like Him in glory.

"He who overcomes, I will make him a pillar in the temple of My God, and he will not go out from it anymore; and I will write on him the name of My God, and the name of the city of My God, the New Jerusalem, which comes down out of heaven from My God, and My new name" Rev. 3:12. Those who stand their ground, who are unshakable in their faith, remain an emblem of stability supporting the body of Christ; the overcomers are the last vestige for the temple of the living God to dwell in the habitation of His people.

"For the accuser of our brothers has been thrown down, he who accuses them day and night before our God. And they overcame him because of the blood of the Lamb and because of the word of their testimony, and they did not love their life even when faced with death" Rev. 12:11. The redeemed overcame by a simple reliance on the blood of the Christ, as the only ground of their hopes.

"For whatever is born of God overcomes the world, and this is the victory that has overcome the world, our faith. Who is the one who overcomes the world, but he who believes that Jesus is the Son of God?" I John 5:4-5. Those begotten from above overcome those begotten from below. Our victory in the race war, the culture war, the war of words is dependent upon our Kinsman Redeemer.

"I will give freely to him who is thirsty from the fountain of the water of life. He who overcomes shall inherit these things and I shall be a God for him and he shall be a son for Me" Rev. 21:6-7. The overcomers are only the Israelites, a faithful Remnant, who inherit the promises of God.

The overcomers are therefore the first to receive their glorified and immortal bodies.

If any of the aforementioned interests you, then you must be an overcomer: one who prevails over the world of Babylon. God does not tempt us (James 1:13). God is all for you winning the race, not against you, coming in last. "For those whom He foreknew, He also predestined to become conformed to the image of His Son, so that He would be the firstborn among many brethren; And those whom He predestined, these also He called; and whom He called, these also He justified; and whom He justified, these also He glorified. What then shall we say to these things? If God is for us, who is against us?" Romans 8:29-31. Nobody has a gun pointed at your head forcing you to sin. "But every man is tempted, when he is drawn away of his own lust, and enticed" James 1:14. So it's up to you and me as to who we will follow and that will determine your resurrexion.

"Do not be astonished at this, for the hour is coming when all who are in the graves shall hear His voice, and they shall go forth; those who have done good things, to the resurrection of life, and those who have practiced wicked things, to the resurrection of judgment" John 28-29. How do we do good things? "Do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. Then you will be able to discern what is the good, pleasing, and perfect will of God" Romans 12:2. If we do not conform to the world, we will not be tempted by the world, and if we are not tempted, we abide in the government of Jesus the Christ.

Once the overcomers have manifested themselves, these sons of God, no longer mere children and immature in the Spirit, will begin the transition from the Church Age into the Kingdom Age until it fills the whole earth. People who missed the boat (or ark) will say to themselves, this is what we wanted all along, but didn't know how to get it. Let's tell them: it's time to get racist. It's time to repent of the Jew. The overcomer will teach our people how to be what their Creator intended for them to be at the beginning in Paradise.

Most assuredly, I can say with all due diligence that God's plan for the ages is to give the Kingdom to the overcomers. "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth" Mt. 5:5. The heirs are not promised a cloud and a harp in Heaven. The sons of perdition will never acquire the Kingdom. Their methods of violence and force have only invested in their own violent end; those who live by the sword. God's Kingdom from a worldly perspective is an unrealistic fantasy and thus the satanic plan for a "new reality" in the world is found only in blind visions i.e. an unholy plan without a divine purpose. All of their humanitarian and philanthropic deeds are the pretense of good Samaritans, all the while overshadowed by subterfuge and chicanery.

I have no idea when all of this is going to pan out, but we have a lot of prophetic markers that are popping up all the time. Already, there are positive signs that Christian Identity is a movement of God gearing up for the paradigm of Elijah ministering to the lost sheep. Our vision is a plan with a purpose from God to bring down the final beast empire. ## WE CAUSED THE "HOLOCAUST"

by Alan F.S. Barton - 28007-2015

While I do not support any totalitarian anti-Christian forms of government, our side, the Allies in WWII, mainly caused what is known as the "Holocaust."

Totalitarian forms of government, such as "Hitlerism" can only survive if they suppress free speech and all public criticism. Hitler and his political party, to prevent this opposition in Germany, established the vast concentration camp industry. The sheer size of the concentration camps, show they were holding and labour camps. Workers were needed, as many German males were in the armed services. Hitler wanted to re-settle many of the concentration camp people in the East, but the advancing Russian Army prevented this.

There were NO Human Gas Chambers in any German concentration camp. The U.S. Gas Chamber expert Fred Leuchter and others proved this. Dishonest criminals destroyed Leuchter, and his career for his truth speaking.

Typhus spread by body lice killed many thousands in the confined camps [Red Cross figures put the total deaths in concentration camps during the war at about 275,000; still a lot of people but nothing like 6 million] Hence the Germans installed gas fumigation chambers to disinfect clothes for lice control, and also showers. The Human Gas Chamber, was our war propaganda myth [to work people up into fighting the Germans].

Starvation was also a big cause of camp deaths. There is no record of our side attempting to get food into the camps during the war. The Allies bombed some camps.

At Casablanca in January 1943, President Roosevelt was the prime mover in refusing to allow Germany to surrender, unless it was "Unconditional." With our war propaganda advocating things like the sterilizing of every German, Germany had little choice but to resist until she was destroyed. Hence we forced the people in the concentration camps to suffer more.

Our bombing raids on Germany and the French resistance, badly damaged German food transport industries. Our air raids may have killed about one million German civilians.

The Allies set a world record for civilians killed, when they bombed and fire-stormed the German cultural city of DRESDEN in 1945, killing over 130,000 people [in one night]. More people were killed at Dresden than when Hiroshima was atom-bombed. Dresden was undefended, had little of war industries and was packed with refugees fleeing the advancing Russian Army. This was an Allied War Crime.

Because the Allies won the war, they got to write its history, and to blame the Germans at the Nuremberg War Crimes Trials for many of the Allied crimes, but truth is ever determined to live. We have Jesus, our Creator's Son to thank for Truth, which can set us free.

During the Boer War in S. Africa 1899-1902, an estimated 28,000 (4,177 women, 22,074 children under 16, and 1,676 men) died in the British concentration camps, from disease and starvation.

After the German surrender at the end of WWII, under General Eisenhower's orders, many, many thousands of Germans died. They were put in open enclosures with no shelter, where they died from exposure, cold, rain and starvation. As the war was over, they were denied the protection of "Prisoner of War" status, under the Geneva Convention.

Canadian Historian James Bacque documented this horrible war crime in his book: OTHER LOSSES published by Stoddard in 1989. Let us remember people have been killed, beaten and thrown in jail so truth can survive.

WHAT THE BIBLE SAYS ABOUT RACIAL INTERMARRIAGE

By Lawrence Blanchard, ND, MDiv

Posted on February 14, 2018 by admin

Our modern culture of diversity and inclusion is not opposed to racial intermarriage or any form of race-mixing. Increasingly, this lifestyle is promoted and accepted as "normal" in the media and entertainment industry, government policy, and churches. Fewer people of any race than ever before oppose such a practice as forbidden. Tolerance is the new religion of "love" and it feels so right!

Secular and Religious

It matters not whether a favorable acceptance of racial intermixture in marriage comes from the secular realm or the religious world. Both are in agreement. Racial intermarriage is okay.

I can understand why the "new age" religions would accept this. Most of them are based on either Hinduism or this idea of "the universe" – whatever basis they have for "it just feels right" or "it's all about love."

But the Catholic and Protestant religious systems, who claim to be conforming to the biblical standard, are just as supportive of racial integration. It makes sense though. If the consensus of opinion is that all races came from Adam, then all have a common origin and are, therefore, equal. So, why not marry interracially and produce racial mixes? It makes no difference. Many would call that "biblical."

What the Bible Says

Of course, as I have said before and consistently wrote about in my books, there is also absolutely no evidence in the Bible, history or genetic science regarding this assumption which is commonly accepted as fact. There is no provable foundation to say that all races have a common origin in Adam.

What the Bible does say is that God created Adam, male and female, in His image and likeness and commanded them to "be fruitful and multiply" (Genesis 1:26-27. And then, from the first Adam and Eve, children were born and successive records of genealogies show a direct, unbroken descent (Genesis 5, 10 and 11). The "nations" of the Bible are all of one race – the race of Adam and Eve. The nations of the Bible do not include any other race nor does the Bible imply the popular, all-inclusive "human race" theory. The problem is that the "Christian" religious world would like to add in their theories about how this one racial family line somehow became all the races and racial subtypes we see today. See my discussion of this in my Book Four, God's Covenant Creation.

Instead of just admitting the plain, simple evidence of what the Bible says, they have complicated things by going beyond Scripture, integrating their own scenarios. Of course, they just try to justify their approach of racial intermarriage and the universal racial application of the Bible. How would they ever justify world missions otherwise?

The Critical Issue

There are two differing conclusions about racial origins and racial intermarriage. But it's not just a difference of opinion that can be debated academically, as if there were no critical consequence. Consider the following logic:

God chose to create a race of people in His own image and likeness. He did so to give them a commission and purpose – to “be fruitful and multiply” and to “subdue” and “rule” the earth.

God set the Adamic race over all the rest of creation in order to administrate everything according to God's laws. We could say that God created Adam to rule in His kingdom like an owner of an estate equips his son to manage it. God equipped Adam to perform that function by creating him in His image and likeness. That rulership and commission would be inherited by Adam's physical descendants.

As God created Adam in His image and likeness, so that image was passed on to his descendants. The critical connection is revealed in Genesis 5:1-3:

“1 This is the book of the generations of Adam. In the day when God created man, He made him in the likeness of God. 2 He created them male and female, and He blessed them and named them Man in the day when they were created. 3 When Adam had lived one hundred and thirty years, he became the father of a son in his own likeness, according to his image, and named him Seth.”

God's image and likeness in Adam and his wife was passed on to Seth and on down through a special family line to Noah (Genesis 5). By implication, this image and likeness of God was retained throughout the generations of Adam.

Consequence of Racial Intermarriage

So, what happens when that image and likeness is broken by non-Adamic racial intermarriage that produces racially-mixed children? No longer is that racially pure image and likeness of God retained. It is completely compromised and significantly diminished.

The biological DNA integrity is necessary to retain the integrity of God's image and likeness. If the DNA is compromised, so is the image and likeness of God. Thus, God's created order for Adam and all of His creation is forever obliterated. This is encompassed in the commandment “Thou shall not commit adultery” (Exodus 20:14). Adulterate means to mix something that was pure (subsequent statutes in regard to race-mixing can be seen in Leviticus 18:23 and 20:15-16). The marriage relationship is sacred and the key to protecting the race of Adam in order to fulfill God's commission and purpose for creating Adam in the first place. That's why it was the death penalty to commit adultery in any form.

The Bible says that racial intermarriage destroys God's created order of authority and the integrity of the Adamic race and their purpose to rule and reign with God in righteousness, order and peace.

WHAT THE BIBLE SAYS ABOUT WHITE SUPREMACY – PART 1

Lawrence Blanchard, ND, MDiv
Posted on January 24, 2018 by admin

Included in the list of pejorative, race-obsessed, buzz words intended to express a belittling connotation of criticism and disrespect is “White supremacy.” If you want to make White people cringe and cower, just let loose the racially-charged epithet accusing them of White supremacy to bring them to heel.

Immediately “White supremacy” conjures up a worldview belief and conviction that White people are superior above all other races and should dominate over them. In the prevailing atmosphere of racial and cultural equality, this idea is abhorrent and is to be rejected and condemned in no uncertain terms. This ranks right up there with armed robbery and murder.

Understanding White Supremacy

But who stops and asks, “What does ‘White supremacy’ mean?” How is it to be defined? You see, that's the first problem. How can anybody intelligently think about, be discerning about, or have a reasonable conversation about “White supremacy” unless it is defined and there is agreement on an exact definition? So, for the sake of argument, let's go with the above-mentioned notion that “White supremacy” means that one believes that the White race is superior over other races and should dominate or have control over them.

The second problem that must be solved is this: White supremacy in respect to what? Painting an undefined, broad-brush conclusion on White supremacy will be inaccurate and distorted. For example, if you look at what race is represented on the college or pro football or basketball arenas, it is pretty evident that Blacks dominate over Whites. They not only are over-represented in numbers, but even more so since Blacks comprise only about 13% of the total American population compared to 61.3% of Whites. In the area of these sports Blacks dominate over Whites. Is that because Blacks are superior in these sports? Looks like it to me. Black supremacy. So what? Who cares just so long as your team wins – right? In truth, Blacks and other non-White people are exempt from any supremacy talk.

White Supremacy and Civilization

Let's look at another example. How about the area of civilization and culture? Few ask about whether White people historically are more civilized and advanced than, let's say, Black African countries. It's quite the rage in today's elite equality culture to discredit and reject Western European civilization. And there are numerous debates on what constitutes civilization and culture. But let's get real. If all civilizations and cultures were equally the same, then why do White people seek out other areas where White people live? Why, since the Civil Rights Acts of 1964 and the Immigration Act of 1965, have White people fled racially-mixed areas to seek out their own communities and now even larger regions of the country? Are White people just evil, good-for-nothing racists? Do they think they are just too superior compared to other races?

Why is it that virtually no one goes on vacation to Somalia, but will definitely go to Germany, Ireland, Sweden or Austria, for example. If the other races with their cultures are so wonderful, why is it that they are all moving to White countries instead of staying home? And why aren't the Whites illegally or legally immigrating to India, Somalia, Haiti or the Arabian countries? Why are Whites fleeing South Africa since Black rule took over? By the way, have you ever heard of any White "no-go zones"? No. They are all of other races – mostly Black.

White Supremacy – Ideology and Reality

The truth of the matter is that White civilizations and culture are historically preferable and superior. In what respect? Law and order, arts, health, sanitation, education, inventions, government, agriculture, transportation, music and so forth. The equality and diversity crowd would howl at this, but who among them is going to prove their ideology and move to a neighborhood that is, let's say, at least 30% non-White? Few would put their money where their mouth is and send their children to a racially-mixed school. No, they will seek out White people like themselves, yet they hypocritically deny the real reason. You know I'm right.

The truth is that non-White civilization and culture is simply not compatible for White people. Call it what you want, but that's reality.

So please, to those who use "White supremacy" in a mindless attempt to demonize White people for their own self-preserving agenda, get off your "White supremacy" high horse and let's just be honest. And, by the way, I don't know of any individual White person who wants to dominate the other races. They just want to be left alone – by themselves without the threat of non-White invasion in the very few White homogeneous areas left.

Bottom line? The "White supremacy" line is just a tactical weapon to beat White people down. So, if you're White, don't fall for it.

Now, with that introduction on the subject, I will be continuing in Part 2, discussing what the Bible says about the White race!

What the Bible Says about White Supremacy – Part 2

Posted on January 31, 2018 by admin

An honest, cursory review of history reveals that the past great civilizations were built by White people, the White race.

Sumer (c.3100-2300 B.C.)

Phoenicia (c.3000 B.C.)

Egypt (c.3000-526 B.C.; founded by Menes, descendant of Ham—Psalm 78:51; 105:23,27)

Assyria (c.2400-607 B.C.)

the Indus Valley of north-western India (c.2000 B.C.)

Persia (c.2000-331 B.C.)

Greece (c.750-168 B.C.)

Parthia (c.500 B.C.-A.D.225)

Rome (c.500 B.C.-A.D.33)

All of these civilizations sprang from the Adamic or White race (also a synonym for Aryan, Indo-European, and Nordic).

The Bible, Israelites, and White People

But what does that have to do with the Bible in respect to White people? The biblical genealogies from Adam on reveal a common, uninterrupted family line to Noah and later Abraham (Genesis chapters 5-11). This selective genealogy continued on to Isaac, Jacob and the 12 tribes of Israel. The rest of the Old and New Testaments (Genesis 12-Revelation) are about those people.

Contrary to popular religious opinion, which falsely teaches that the people of Israel are today's Jews, the true physical descendants of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob are the descendants of the northwest, European people – the Anglo-Celto-Saxon, Germanic, Scandinavian and kindred people. This truth is almost universally unknown today and heartily condemned by the modern religious world. But nobody who rejects this truth has done their research. I have, and I wrote a book about it, Identifying Biblical Israel Today. So, for the sake of argument (because it's virtually impossible to have an intelligent conversation with an ignorant person), you will just have to accept my statement about who the chosen covenant Adamic family line is – for now, at least. Many of you already know.

So, if the real Israelites are a portion of the White race, what does God say about them, in respect to White supremacy? Let's begin with Deuteronomy 7:12-14:

"Then it shall come about, because you listen to these judgments and keep and do them, that the LORD your God will keep with you His covenant and His lovingkindness which He swore to your forefathers. He will love you and bless you and multiply you; He will also bless the fruit of your womb and the fruit of your ground, your grain and your new wine and your oil, the increase of your herd and the young of your flock, in the land which He swore to your forefathers to give you. You shall be blessed above all peoples; there will be no male or female barren among you or among your cattle."

If Israel obeyed the laws of God, He would keep "His covenant" with them and bless them "above all peoples," among other promises. Of course, this blessing of supremacy above all peoples was conditional under the Old Covenant.

God's Choosing

This blessing is repeated in Deuteronomy 10:14-15:

"Behold, to the LORD your God belong heaven and the highest heavens, the earth and all that is in it. Yet on your fathers did the LORD set His affection to love them, and He chose their descendants after them, even you above all peoples, as it is this day."

The blessing of supremacy and God's choosing Israel was rooted in God's love for their fathers Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. Deuteronomy 26:18-19 it states:

"The LORD has today declared you to be His people, a treasured possession, as He promised you, and that you should keep all His commandments; and that He will set you high above all nations which He has made, for praise, fame, and honor; and that you shall be a consecrated people to the LORD your God, as He has spoken.”

Speaking to Israel, Moses confirmed that God would “set you high above all nations.”

Once again, God promises that He would bless Israel, setting them “high above all the nations” (Deuteronomy 28:1) and specifically describing that supremacy:

“The LORD shall cause your enemies who rise up against you to be defeated before you; they will come out against you one way and will flee before you seven ways.” – Deuteronomy 28:7

“The LORD will make you the head and not the tail, and you only will be above, and you will not be underneath, if you listen to the commandments of the LORD your God, which I charge you today, to observe them carefully...” – Deuteronomy 28:13

Deuteronomy 28 contains the blessings and curses God said He would do if Israel obeyed Him or disobeyed Him, respectively. Again, the blessing of supremacy was conditional. On the other hand, the curses are also conditional. It would be instructive to take the time to read all of Deuteronomy 28.

Why Did God Choose Israel to Be in Dominion?

The point is that it was the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob who decreed and placed Israel in a position of supremacy. Why? Because Israel was ordained to be God’s servant to bring forth righteousness and justice and establish His Kingdom. It’s a matter of an order of authority. That’s how God’s Kingdom operates. God’s Kingdom is about order and peace.

But alas, there is nothing but increasing chaos and oppression all over the planet. The Israel of God today has been misidentified as the “Jews.” The real Israel, for decades and centuries, has rejected their heritage, the God of their fathers, and His laws. Consequently, their nations have been the tail and their enemies rule over them.

Nothing will change until they seek the God of their fathers, humble themselves and repent. Unless they turn back to their Creator, their nations along with the rest of “humanity” will continue to suffer and be destroyed by God’s enemies.

Created and Ordained

White people are superior to the other races, as expressed in their culture and civilizations, only because they were made in the image of God. They are the descendants of biblical Israel and their God has ordained that they be elevated above all other peoples for the sake of His Kingdom. However, they are incapable of fulfilling this responsibility unless they repent and come under the rule and reign of Jesus the Christ, their Kinsman Redeemer. One day that will come about when true Israel has decided it has suffered enough and has nowhere else to turn for deliverance except the Lord their God. The promise of II Chronicles 7:13-14 still stands. Read it!

“If I shut up the heavens so that there is no rain, or if I command the locust to devour the land, or if I send pestilence among My people, and My people who are called by My name [more correctly: upon whom my name is called, a reference to Numbers 6:22-27] humble themselves and pray and seek My face and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven, will forgive their sin and will heal their land.”

I realize this is a very uncomfortable topic. But the God of the Bible has clearly chosen a people for a purpose. We cringe at this idea of supremacy perhaps only because we still believe the “equality” doctrine of our times. If anyone rails against “White supremacy” just ask them what the Bible says.

Then Jesus spoke to the crowds and to His disciples. “The teachers of the Law and the Pharisees,” He said, “are authorized interpreters of Moses’ Law, So you must obey and follow everything they tell you to do; do not, however, imitate their actions, because they do not practice what they preach. They fix up heavy loads and tie them on men’s backs, yet they aren’t willing even to lift a finger to help them carry those loads. They do everything just so people will see them. [sounds a bit like today’s politicians!] See how big are the containers with Scripture verses on their foreheads and arms, notice how long are the hems of cloaks! And you must not call anyone here on earth ‘Father,’ for you have only the one Father in heaven. Nor should you be called ‘Leader,’ because your one and only leader is the Messiah. And whoever makes himself great will be humbled, and whoever humbles himself will be made great.”

AMERICAN COMMUNITY SURVEY - ORWELLIAN OVERREACH

by Phillip G. Kayser, Ph.D.

The American Community Survey is an Orwellian overreach of federal powers that should be resisted by everyone.

It is a survey that invades privacy by asking about the presence of flush toilets, the amount of income that you earn, whether there is a business in your home, how much you spend on utilities, where you work, what time you leave for work, how long it takes you to get to work, etc.

This national survey is both unbiblical and unconstitutional. And (as illustrated by recent hack into classified information on federal employees) it is dangerous to have our personal information located in such a central warehouse. What] are we to think of this Biblically?

According to the Bible, any gathering of census information beyond the basics needed during time of war was unlawful. The national census of Israel in Numbers 1-2 only authorized 1) a simple enumeration,<sup>1</sup> 2) of males,<sup>2</sup> 3) twenty years old and above,<sup>3</sup> 4) who were able to go to war,<sup>4</sup> 5) who had voluntarily joined with Moses for battle,<sup>5</sup> 6) who were not part of the clergy,<sup>6</sup> 7) and if it took place during a time of war.<sup>7</sup> In other words, it was a simple enumeration for military purposes, not a massive collection of information.

When David restricted his earlier census to these seven criteria of God's Law, he was blessed by God.<sup>8</sup> But when David later engaged in a census that ignored five of the seven restrictions, God treated the census as a gross overreach of state authority despite the fact that David's census was far less intrusive than the Community Survey is.<sup>9</sup> 1 Chronicles 21:1, 7, 8, 9-17, 18-27) makes clear that David's later census was wicked in its origin (2 Samuel 24:1), was "abominable to Joab" and to God, was a great sin, was foolish, resulted in God's judgment upon Israel as a whole, and required atonement before the judgment could be averted.

People have sometimes been puzzled over why the people were judged when this was David's sin. [CIM note: There is no indication that Israel ever kept a Sabbath Year, or a Jubilee Year since they had entered the Promised Land. Therefore, they "owed" God 70 years, and therefore 70,000 people were killed before the death angel stopped, also with each census, they were to collect the half shekel for the sanctuary, and apparently this was not done either]. But it is clear that the Bible expected limited and accountable government, and if the people did not resist tyrannical acts, they deserved what they got. Unfortunately, the people of David's time passively acquiesced to his overreach of power, with only Joab resisting.

So what constituted the overreach? It was simply that David ignored five of seven restrictions given in Numbers 1-2. Though David 's census was a simple enumeration, it unfortunately involved 1) Levites, 2) citizens who were under twenty, 3) citizens who were not able to go to war, 4) was involuntary (being opposed even by Joab), and 5) it did not take place during a time of battle. In other words, it was not a purely military issue.<sup>10</sup> All of this Biblical information gives ample grounds for Christians to oppose the Community Survey.<sup>11</sup>

In addition to Biblical grounds, the American Community Survey could also be resisted on Constitutional grounds, based on the following three criteria.

First, it violates the intent of Article 1, section 2, clause 3 in three ways: 1) It is an ongoing never-ending survey rather than a survey that happens once every ten years. 2) It is asking questions that go way beyond the simple enumeration needed to ascertain how many representatives a state may have. 3) The race questions go way beyond the original intention of representation "excluding Indians not taxed."

Second, the intrusive questioning violates the Fourth Amendment<sup>12</sup> in three ways: 1) People are no longer secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects when agents can demand information through threats of fines. 2) The survey is certainly an unreasonable search and seizure of information that is not warranted in the Constitution. 3) People are treated as criminals for not allowing agents without a warrant into their homes.

Third, it is unconstitutional because the content of the survey is not authorised in the Constitution, and the Congress has no authority that is not "herein granted" in the Constitution.<sup>11</sup> -----

PORNOGRAPHY & EVANGELICAL STATISM

by Phillip G. Kayser, Ph.D.

Horrified by the evils of pornography, evangelicals frequently propose that the federal government monitor, control, and regulate the internet. This is asking the same government that defends and promotes sexual perversion to protect us from sexual perversion—absurd! But it is the only solution that a lawless church can envision. This article will seek to show a better way.

There is no question about the fact that pornography has become a crisis in our nation, destroying marriages, harming children, clogging the television networks and internet with filth, and filling our nation with rapists, perverts, and child abusers. But with every crisis there are tyrants ready to "the problem by asking for more control. We need to recognize that the very government offering to fix the problem has been part of the problem by decriminalizing adultery (unlawful sexual relations and interracial marriage), sexual perversions, and homosexuality.

Rather than using the evidence (pornography) of potential criminal acts as an excuse to control all internet activity, pornography could be used as additional circumstantial evidence to prosecute pornographers who are accused of the crimes of rape,<sup>1</sup> incest,<sup>2</sup> adultery,<sup>3</sup> certain types of fornication,<sup>4</sup> and homosexuality.<sup>5</sup>

Once Biblically defined criminal acts have been proven, those who produce, distribute, and sell porn could be tried as accomplices to the crimes, and the porn could be used as evidence against them. However, it must be kept in mind that even pornographers have the protection of Biblical due process, which includes proscriptions against entrapment,<sup>6</sup> sting operations,<sup>7</sup> and coerced testimony,<sup>8</sup> and which includes protections such as the requirement of two or three actual witnesses,<sup>9</sup> public trial,<sup>10</sup> the right to face and cross examine your accusers,<sup>11</sup> etc.

Evangelicals rightly recognize that our culture is not ready to follow Biblical Law, but they wrongly conclude that we therefore must use statism to solve the problem.

God's solution is conversion and discipleship, revival and reformation; it is bottom up transformation, not top down force. When we bypass grace, we usually end up leaving the limited civil government to be our saviour. But if Christians across this nation would truly take advantages of the means of grace and the standard of God's Law as sufficient for every problem in life (2 Tim. 3:16-17), we would begin to see culture transformed.

Let us arise and build by laying aside carnal weapons and picking up the mighty weapons given by God (2 Cor. 10:4-6).

THE GATEKEEPERS OF THE CULTURE

by Andrea Schwartz

The breakdown of the family is a well-documented reality. But pundits, candidates, politicians, preachers, and educators alike continue to turn to statist solutions to the social ills of our day, failing to recognize that they result from a failure to abide by God's architecture for society.

In God's economy, the family is the primary institution that is to train individuals to become responsible participants in every sphere of life. Even among those who acknowledge the Biblical jurisdiction of the family, the sad reality is that very few have any practical concept as to how to turn things around, or even know where to begin. The book of Genesis is the necessary "starting point" (forgive the pun) in determining how this should play out in day-to-day life. With Genesis as our foundation, we can then proceed through the laws of the Pentateuch for our blueprint for social order. Only then can we hope to make any lasting difference beyond the walls of our homes.

Man, made for dominion, was to fulfill this task, not as a solitary gender, but as male and female, each with specific and individual functions—physically, emotionally, and familially. As the foundational couple, Adam and Eve were the means by which dominion would occur, as they were first to be commanded to be fruitful, multiply, and replenish the earth. Whenever and wherever God's blueprint is altered or "improved upon" there will be inevitable judgment upon the offenders and their offspring. How many of the social ills of our day are a consequence of the family failing to maintain its jurisdictional role of dominion in and through the areas of health, education, and welfare?

R.J. Rushdoony in his short book Law & Liberty capably outlines the link between law, liberty, and the family's role in the production of a godly social order. When ignored and abandoned, the social order reflects the sin of Genesis 3:5 and races ahead to tyrannical statism. He writes:

We are today in an era of burgeoning statism. On every side, the family is under attack, and the state is assuming progressively more and more of the family's functions, and progressively finding itself more and more prone to social disintegration and demoralization. More than ever before, the Biblical faith and law concerning the family, its functions, property, and faith, must be stressed and taught. The future does not belong to disease; it belongs to health. Because this is God's world, it is God's order which shall prevail. "Except the LORD build the house, they labour in vain that build it." (Ps. 127:1).<sup>1</sup>

In the last fifty years, many Christians have begun this process by reclaiming the family's role in the education of their children. Rushdoony called this endeavour the quiet revolution<sup>2</sup> as obedience was carried out without fanfare, except when the state stepped in to squelch this jurisdictional corrective. Much more needs to be done in the areas of health and welfare, as Christians reassert their duty under God to handle their own health and remove health care from the dictates of the state.<sup>3</sup> Likewise, the administration of charity must be returned to the family if the command to care for widows and orphans is to be obeyed. However, exactly who is both capable and equipped to carry out these vital tasks? I submit that the Proverbs 31 woman is key to their fulfillment. First, some background.

How Did Things Change So Fast?

I was a post-WWII baby, coming on the scene in the midst of the cold war. Statism, had previously made tremendous inroads into the cultural life of America with the advent of the motion picture and the ability to project a standard that could be utilized to manipulate the masses. Yet like so many baby boomers, I grew up in a social order that had as its norm a two-parent household, with extended family close by, and with the expectation that mothers would raise their own children and fathers would provide for their families.

Television, like many of the movies of the 30s and 40s, played a significant role in grooming women to shed the protection of the family and assert themselves as “just as good as men.” Up until that time, the average person was more intimately aware of his local community and conformed to the social norms that were very much tied to family life. The immigrant ghettos of the late 1800s and early 1900s, regardless of religious denomination, had a high regard for family life and the responsibility to care for one’s own. As mass visual communication became more commonplace, it became an effective tool for masters of manipulation to plant seeds of discontent and encourage conflicts within the family structure to foster the adversarial “battle of the sexes” and “the generation gap” that gained a foothold.

One such manipulator was Edward Bernays (Jew-nephew of Sigmund Freud, promoted and encouraged smoking in women), who, in the early 1920s, made effective use of public relations infused with a psychological component adapted from his uncle to play upon an already weakened religious faith of the people.<sup>4</sup> Women, who, in many cases, had legitimate gripes about the lack of justice in many spheres, were directed to fight back, not with the principles of Scripture, but rather to assert and demand their equality with men. Because of skillful manipulation, these wrongs were not rectified by these “advancements” but only worsened in other, less obvious ways. As Rushdoony points out:

The legal safeguards of the family are increasingly removed, so that again society is threatened with the anarchy of an anti-familistic state and its legalized lawlessness. In the name of equal rights, women are being stripped of the protections of the family and given no place except the perverse competition of a sexual market in which increasingly shock, perversion, deviation, and aggressiveness command a premium. The women who gain by equal rights are those clearly who are hostile to Christian law.

The law, it must be remembered, is warfare against that which is defined as evil and a protection of that which is held to be good. In the developing law-structure of humanism, warfare is implicitly waged against the parents and the family as evil, and protection is extended to perverts and law-breakers on the assumption that their “rights” need protecting.<sup>5</sup>

Taking The Bait

The effective marketing advocating for gender equality permeated much of what Hollywood produced in the 30s and 40s with the autonomous woman, quite capable without men, becoming the epitome of womanhood.<sup>6</sup> Even the traditional roles for women were often stereotyped or caricatured, brewing a restlessness that resulted in life imitating art.

In the 50s, television was a significant factor in shaping the cultural mindset by being the gatekeeper when it came to classifying what would be considered entertainment. A stream of popular shows invaded the households of America (and the world), which often characterized the husband/father as a buffoon with housewives who seemed to live limited boring lives. Often the negative stereotype helped to convince women that being a wife and mother were second-class roles and they were destined for greater things. Then, in the sixties, the independent, single woman was often the focus of programming. Although equality was the stated goal, the attack against the family was the underlying one. Rushdoony notes:

Discussions of equality are usually characterized by a fuzziness of language, since the term is usually a political slogan and as such is evasive of meaning ... [T]he national ideal of concept of equality has been influential in modern history. In this faith, an abstract concept of man is held to be true irrespective of any and all circumstances concerning the individual. This is essentially a religious faith, but, having been affirmed by humanists who pride themselves on their rationalism, the name can be used even as its irrationality is noted. In terms of rationalism of this school, man is logically a certain kind of being possessed of certain natural attributes, of which equality is central.

This is the reality concerning man; all factors pointing to another condition are ruled to be historical, cultural, or environmental accidents. Hence the accidents must be eliminated and the reality allowed to flourish...

Sexual equality, also expressed in the feminist movement, is an assertion that the differences between men and women are accidents (in the philosophical sense), their reality being a common and an equal condition. This concept is again a by-product of “rationalism” and humanism and presupposes that differences are invidious and uniformly ideal.<sup>7</sup>

Consider the differences between America today and my childhood in the 50s. Most families were two-parent households and, except for extenuating circumstances, mom cared for the children, and her children and extended family were her primary focus. [But then, they lived close together, and saw each other regularly. Now, they live much further apart and only see each other very occasionally, losing the commonality they once had]. They also were vital to the functioning of church and the greater community with their volunteer efforts. How different the situation today. Even with financial security, women become restless if they cannot return to work after a short maternity leave, claiming they will go crazy if they are forced to remain at home. Over my lifetime, slogans like: Why shouldn’t women have the same opportunities as men? Why shouldn’t certain arenas (the boardroom or the battlefield) be suitable places for women? Why must women be bogged down with raising children, when their gifts and talents can be better utilized elsewhere and suitable caregivers hired in their stead? In the campaign to gain gender equality, the right to murder the unborn was placed in the hands of women thanks to an effective propaganda machine.

Eliminating The Proverbs 31 Woman

As I have examined elsewhere, Proverbs 31 is credited to a king's mother outlining for him the qualifications of an excellent wife, a virtuous woman. Everything she does and manages begins with her looking well to the ways of her household. Those who claim that this woman engages in business and various enterprises as justification for women pursuing status and recognition apart from a family context fail to realize that, when you remove the woman as household manager, the structure and functions of the family are compromised, as well as the structure and function of the extended culture.

Not only does Genesis clearly give God's purpose for creating a suitable helper for Adam, but repeatedly in Scripture a worthy woman and wife is credited with being the most cherished and expensive of all gifts. As modern culture demeaned God's order and relegated the high calling of women, the church did likewise. Yet it did so by demanding a wife's total obedience to her husband as the countermeasure. This set families back and resulted in abusive relationships, among other things.

The directive in Titus 2 for the older, more experienced Christian woman to make it a priority to teach the younger ones to love their husbands and children, is a recipe for an intact culture that has as its purpose the pursuit of the Kingdom of God and His righteousness. Not only do many younger women take more of their counsel from daytime television, women's magazines, and social media, but often older, seasoned women are unwilling to make themselves available for counsel and assistance. The result is a fractured society with women being preyed upon and devalued more so than in any other generation.<sup>8</sup>

Cases In Point

Military service is an area where women have fought for equality. How many people are aware of the alarming statistic of the rape of women in the military that often goes unreported and unprosecuted because the system is rigged in favour of the predators? Many women join the military to serve their country, often exchanging their service for promised education and career opportunities. Has this push for equality benefitted them or left them unprotected and unable to achieve justice? In the push for equality, they have been the recipients of brutality and degradation. And now plans are underway to make military service mandatory for women.

Higher education is another area wherein women fought for equality—both academically and athletically. Here as well, the incidence of sexual abuse and rape on college campuses is significant. Often when reported, the school administration closes ranks, especially if the perpetrators are athletes who bring in sizable revenues for the sports programs. As a culture we have so devalued the covering and protection that the family provides, that we send off a new crop of college co-eds every year to be subjugated to this degrading treatment. In many cases, predators can spot those who are outside the care of family. One would be hard-pressed to call this a net gain.<sup>9</sup>

A Truly Biblical Solution

Rather than attempt to legislate our way to a morally sound culture when those in power display their utter disregard for Biblical morality, it is time for women to consider whether or not they have traded their birthright for a bowl of porridge. We can engage in the rhetoric that asserts that women are just as capable as men and that abusive transgressions against women must not be tolerated. However, these are not the underlying issues. They will not get to the root of the problem and will only serve to foster more deadly societal weeds.

It is not enough to identify the problem; we need to take the reins in pursuing the godly directives for women to value the high calling the Bible outlines for them. Women won't be able to do their part to restore the Biblical family and a godly social order until they embrace the value of chastity, identify that sexual expression is reserved only for marriage, make family (immediate and extended) their highest priority, and affirm the unique position they hold to create cultural change by reclaiming those areas usurped by the state. As Rushdoony notes:

We have removed the Bible and its faith and morals from our schools, our courts, our medical clinics (and from too many churches), and then we act indignant when we encounter corruption and hypocrisy in high places and low. But we have asked for it, paid for it and required it by our exclusion of God and His Law-Word from our lives, and our indignation has a dishonest ring.

Under similar circumstances, Isaiah 8:20 gives us a standard of judgment: "To the law and to the testimony: if they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them."<sup>10</sup>

Our need is for the grace and saving power of God and the authority of His Law-Word. Men are not saved by knowing how evil the times are but by the sovereign and saving power of God.<sup>11</sup>

Christian women, we are poised to reclaim the crown rights of Jesus the Christ in our society as we return to our creation commission. It is no accident that God gave women the privilege of bearing children and ras-ing them. Paul states in 1 Tim. 2:14-15 that although the woman (Eve) was deceived in the transgression, women will be saved in childbearing if they continue in faith and charity and holiness with sobriety. This is anything but a lowly and second-class undertaking. By her bearing and rearing children, and extending her hands to those in need, while clinging tightly to the Law-Word of God, and supporting her husband and family in the dominion undertaking, she is poised to be the gatekeeper of a culture that truly honours the Creator. Rather than attempt to rectify injustices and social decay by using the methods of this world, the power of God is at our fingertips, if we will but use it.

Proverbs 31:17 reads, "She girdeth her loins with strength, and strengtheneth her arms." I have always taken that to mean that a woman should be physically fit and strong. However, here is an additional perspective. The very act of childbirth requires tremendous strength and effort on the part of the woman. Nothing quite compares to it. What's more, from the outset of the baby's life, she holds and carries her child. What begins as a six-to-nine-pound infant is often carried as a toddler and child up to thirty-plus pounds and for three to four years. In the course of that time, not to mention when you consider multiple children, a woman's arms get quite strong, not to mention her ability to balance and multi-task the day-in and day-out demands of motherhood. The Proverbs 31 woman receives strength as she fulfills her calling under God. Is it any wonder that God's remedy for Adam's longing for a suitable

A Christian Israelite View

GOD'S PEACE

by Bob Vermaat

"Rejoice in the Lord always; and again I say, rejoice!"

When we look at those words of Paul in this caption verse, we are reminded to always be happy and at peace in the knowledge that we serve and worship a loving and merciful God. If I reflect on the articles that we publish in our magazine, it seems that we as writers very often tend to dwell on the prophetic warnings and impending judgments that God, though the words of His prophets lay on us in order to show us the error of our ways.

Now, whereas these warnings are very important in our walk with the Lord and our actions in our everyday life, it is also equally important that we should never forget the peace and comfort we enjoy as we travel life's road with the Lord as our constant companion. With this in mind, I would like to take this opportunity to dwell on the fact that a life lived for and with God is not only good for the soul but grants us unspeakable comfort and peace throughout our daily life. When we look at the Psalms of David, we will find that the Psalmist in most of his Psalms, in the very first verse of each, expresses his love, adoration, and total devotion to his Lord. Even though David, a mortal human being, just like all of us, had his shortcomings and often fell short of God's ways in his daily life, his devotion to God in faith never faltered. It was that devotion and reliance on God's mercy that gave David the peace and joy that is so evident in the Psalms.

With little effort we also can obtain that peace and joy and comfort. All we have to do is find the same attitude that David possessed. In Matt. 5:3-12 we read the words of Jesus, as He preached what is known as "the Sermon on the Mount." The verses three through twelve are called the Beatitudes, the same can also be found in more elaborate form in Luke 6:20-38. When we take these words of our Lord to heart and practise them in our daily life, we will have gained a good start in obtaining that proper attitude.

Now do not for one minute think that this will be easy; for given who and what we are, the mortal nature that we possess, we tend to rebel against the fact that this will mean total rejection of self, and self denial is never easy at the best of times, for we always tend to feel that we ourselves must stay in control. That is just our nature and we really can not help ourselves. In Matt. 11:28-30, Jesus says "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart, and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy and my burden is light." Jesus is not talking about physical labour and bodily rest in these verses but rather spiritual struggles and upheavals, and is thus saying that if we lay all our burdens upon Him we will most certainly find the rest we so desperately need. This is a most awesome promise that all of us should take to heart at all times. All and every aspect of our lives should be given over to our Lord and He will carry every one of our burdens, both great and small, for to Him there is nothing too great and nothing too trivial. As I said earlier this will not be an easy thing to do for the flesh is ever warring against the spirit. A good example of this very same fact is given us by Paul in Romans 7:19, where he tells us, "For the good that I would, I do not; but the evil that I would not, that I do." So, we can see that if Paul, who certainly was Spirit-led and God-directed, struggled with this selfsame problem, then it also stands to reason that we will and can have problems in that regard.

We have to teach ourselves, through trials and tribulation, to become completely reliant and dependent on our Lord, and when we falter, we will have to admit to both self and God that we again asked self first instead of our Heavenly Father. They say that practice makes perfect and thus in due time we will gain that much needed attitude of total submission and we will be able to shout, just like David, "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want." When that time comes, we will have complete joy in the Lord and we will have found that Peace of God, which passeth all understanding. Praise be to God. Amen!
